Programme overview

The educational aims of this programme are informed by Goldsmiths’ and our partner institutions’ declared focus on ‘the study of creative, cultural and social processes’. Our collective approach is to develop arts administration as a creative discipline within arts organisations and to take a ‘creative’ approach to new models of theory and practice.

This degree will be taught in partnership for certain pathways with the Music Department and The Department of Theatre and Performance and with key individuals and representative industry organisations in the cultural sector. [see partners in learning] This programme is designed to allow students to gain the knowledge and skills to operate effectively within the cultural sector in a diversity of roles. These will range from those in administration and management within arts organisations to those within the local, national and international cultural infrastructures. Students will be introduced to the specialist skills of the sector but will also be able to engage with wider cultural debates. They will be able to build on a historical and theoretical understanding of cultural and creative systems (from a number of countries) and organisations to inform innovative practice in areas such as strategic planning, programming, audience development, fundraising, intercultural work, cultural leadership, arts education, copyright, cultural tourism, cultural relations and diplomacy and cultural identity.
All management and policy approaches on the programme start with creative arts and potential audiences.

Programme entry requirements

This Masters Programme is aimed at graduates and those already working within creative and cultural industries. Students should either have an undergraduate degree in the social sciences or humanities: including the creative areas of drama, dance, music, visual arts, film, video or media, or in an area of design as well as economics and cultural studies. It is likely that candidates will have an interest in developing an entrepreneurial approach to their own practice or that of colleagues (as part of a team), or an interest in developing the creative and cultural industries infrastructure of a town/city/region. A 2:1 class honours degree or its equivalent in a relevant discipline (outlined above) is normally required. Non-native speakers of English will have to achieve a score of IELTS (6.5) and will be encouraged while studying to use the resources of the English Language Centre.
Interviews will be undertaken in person or by phone/Skype. Applications will be initially processed by the programme director to check for suitability to the programme and then passed to admissions tutors for the options in appropriate departments for interview. For those candidates where their application indicates a clear interdisciplinary between departments joint or sequential interviews may be required.

CPD: Modules within this Masters Programme can also be taken as Professional Development as ‘stand-alone’ modules. This can lead on a credit basis to the full Masters degree – progression to the dissertation can be achieved by passing the four main modules.

Aims of the programme

To enable students to build on their existing experience or interest to develop knowledge and skills within arts administration and cultural policy.

To enable students to develop a critical understanding of the cross sector and interdisciplinary nature of both cultural organisations and the infrastructure, both state and commercial that supports them.

To provide the context for students to develop their own thinking related to the sector in an environment where they will receive expert academic and practitioner supervision.

To enable students to both engage with the key issues of the discipline and provide them with a body of work that can be used to develop a career within the sector.

To enable students through a work placement to gain experience of a work environment but also to be able to critically analyse the ‘culture of the organisation’ and its management practice.

To enable students through group based work, with colleagues from a diversity of cultures/countries to develop an understanding and practice of communication [particularly cross-cultural] and leadership skills.

What you will be expected to achieve

By fully participating in the programme students will have developed knowledge and understanding and will be able to:

How you will learn

Methods
Goldsmiths recognises the importance of supporting student learning with high-quality teaching through a variety of mechanisms, lectures, seminars, workshops, group research projects with significant levels of individual tutorial support, particularly for dissertations. A significant amount of the learning will be delivered though group projects and activities this is designed to develop students' individual communication skills and an experience similar to that of the workplace environment as most organisations in the sector work in task based teams.

VLE (Virtual Learning Environment)
This MA has an extensive VLE resource for reference documents and group forum work. Peer learning is encouraged through interaction between VLE resources and group work.

Practitioners
Expertise is provided by departmental staff in all participating departments who are not only dedicated, experienced teachers but are also distinguished practitioners and researchers in their own right, working in national and international contexts. This programme also draws on a large pool of visiting practitioners, academics and those working in the cultural sector to provide a breadth of expertise and contact with current practice, both UK and internationally. [See Partners in Learning Appendix]

Studying Arts Administration and Cultural Policy in London
The UK has a large cultural sector in both the state and commercial sectors. Many of these organisations, theatres, orchestras, arts centres and festivals are based in London, although the programme will also draw on relationships with creative organisations across the UK [in particular in Manchester]. These organisations provide a unique research and placement resource. In addition there are also further subject specific resources within industry support organisations such as AMA Arts Marketing Association, The Agency and Engage as well as European resources through ENCATC [European Network of Cultural Administration Training Centres], AAAE [American Association of Arts Educators] in the USA and ANCER in Singapore

International Perspective

Many students on the Programme come from overseas making a valuable contribution to the learning environment by providing an international perspective on cultural policy and cultural and, creative issues from their respective countries. In addition staff members have considerable expertise and experience of working and researching internationally in areas that are directly relevant to the programme.
How you will be assessed

The mix of assessment approaches across the programme is specifically designed to encourage students to engage with developing their own pathway within a supportive framework. This will provide them with the flexibility to undertake assessment within the programme that relates to their own learning style but also potentially providing them with outputs that can be used to develop their careers. We recognise that students must be provided with feedback on their progress and achievements in order that they develop their capacity to judge their own performance against the required standards. We therefore incorporate feedback at all stages in the programme and provide it in a number of ways e.g. individualised formal written feedback, oral feedback, collective feedback, peer feedback etc.

Students’ written work will be assessed in a manner appropriate to the requirements of any particular assignment. See also Additional Criteria below.

In relation to assessed written modulework students are assessed with regard to:
- An ability to write lucidly and with focused relevance
- An ability to identify and examine key issues in relation to the work in hand
- An ability to draw upon and evaluate primary and secondary sources as appropriate
- An ability to sustain a critical response through the development of coherent analysis
- Evidence of insight, intelligence and stylistic aptitude in presenting written criticism
- An ability to present the required work in a clear and appropriate form.

In relation to assessed practice based or Portfolio modulework students are assessed with regard to:
\begin{itemize}
  \item An ability to reflect the practice accurately in a written or portfolio format, or both
  \item An ability to identify and examine key issues in relation to the work in hand
  \item An ability to draw upon and evaluate primary and secondary sources as appropriate
  \item An ability to sustain a critical response through the development of coherent analysis
  \item Evidence of insight, intelligence and stylistic aptitude in presenting written criticism and an aptitude to use the portfolio format creatively
  \item An ability to present, where relevant, a business plan that is accurate and sustainable for the applied context
\end{itemize}

The Institute uses a variety of forms of assessment for different functions. Clearly, many assessments contribute to the classification of your degree, but other assessments are designed for diagnostic and developmental purposes. All assessment assignments must be completed by the stated submission deadline, whether they contribute directly towards the classification of your degree or form part of the regular monitoring of your progress and development.

Diagnostic assessment
ICCE students will undertake, in term 1, diagnostic writing or projects that will receive formative assessment and feedback but not count towards the degree – they will NOT be given a mark. This is to particularly assist student who have returned to Higher Education or come from a different cultural background.

Forms of Assessment
ICCE prides itself on giving rigorous training in the various, and equally important, elements which comprise the subject area of the disciplines covered. It is therefore appropriate that your progress is monitored through assessments which encourage the full range of critical approaches, theoretical models and modes of expressions.

Writing skills and presentation
Standards of expression and presentation are taken into account in the assessment of all written submissions. Work will be penalised if not properly presented. Work will normally be penalised if it is 10% more than or 10% less than the required word count.
Postgraduate (taught) degrees
Final marks are agreed at the Department of ICCE Sub-Board (MA students) in October/November, attended by both internal and Visiting Examiners. They are then ratified by the Chair of the College Board of Examiners.
The Sub-Board considers your final mark in relation to your entire portfolio of marks and any mitigating circumstances that might apply. It makes classification recommendations to the Chair of the College Board of Examiners, who will determine finally the classification of the degree which the College will award.
ICCE also has a Part in Advance Exam Board in June. This is to progress part-time students into their second year. The Board will also consider marks from term one modules and is therefore able to offer September re-sits for failed modules.

Moderation of degrees
All assessments and examinations are second-marked by internal examiners. They are then subject to monitoring by our Visiting Examiners who are appointed by the College. The principal role of Visiting Examiners is to safeguard the standards of assessment both internally within the Department and monitoring by our Visiting Examiners who are appointed by the College. The principal role of Visiting Examiners is to safeguard the standards of assessment both internally within the Department and externally in comparison with other, similar, University departments/degrees. Visiting Examiners will sample work from the entire range of essays, reports, examinations, project work, and production outcomes. They will then discuss marks with internal examiners and tutors.

<td>Pass</td>
<td>Represents the overall achievement of the appropriate learning outcomes to a threshold level. | 30-49% | Fail | Represents an overall failure to achieve the appropriate learning outcomes. Marks in this range will reflect work that is significantly inconsistent or flawed in relation to all or some of the areas listed above. The work relies heavily on a very limited research and is descriptive rather than analytical in nature. |
| 10-29% | Bad fail | Represents a significant overall failure to achieve the appropriate learning outcomes. The work will be significantly flawed, not respect appropriate reading or knowledge of the subject area and will have attempted to address one of the learning outcomes, but not all of them. |
| 1-9% | Very bad fail | A submission that does not even attempt to address the specified learning outcomes (shall be deemed a non-valid attempt and must be re-sat. |
| 0% | Non submission or plagiarised | A categorical mark representing either the failure to submit an assessment or a mark assigned for a plagiarised assessment |

Academic support

We are committed to making reasonable adjustment that allow, as far as possible, for equality of opportunity and access, and to ensuring that students are not substantially disadvantaged because of a specific learning difficulty and/or disability.

The Institute recognises the importance of supporting students’ learning with high quality teaching that is responsive to their individual and collective needs. The programmes have been designed to be as accessible as possible to all students.

A variety of library resources and arrangements, enhance learning. There is an adequate collection of journals and substantial and up-to-date texts in the College library. Heavily used texts are placed on reference and short-loan. Students are also encouraged to take advantage of the excellent library resources available through the University of London.

The Department – and associated Centres and Units - hosts a variety of seminars, workshops and conferences which provide an opportunity to exchange views and expose students to the latest theoretical and methodological developments.

The College provides counselling and student support services (e.g. English for overseas students, dyslexia, etc.). For students whose first language is not English, The English Language Centre provides modules in English language and English for Academic purposes through tailor-made timetables of study skill sessions and in-sessional modules in collaboration with the programme. There is also tailor-made provision for those students who may be re-entering Higher Education after a period away -- or arriving to it for the first time - which develops their critical and writing skills specifically for the written assessments in the subject area.

If students encounter difficulties at any time with their studies, the module convenor and other module tutors can provide additional academic support whilst the Senior Tutor and Deputy Senior Tutor are available by appointment to discuss welfare- centred issues. The Department is taking advantage of and pursuing the College’s Disability Awareness policies. Students with specific needs in this regard are considered on an individual basis. The programme makes strenuous efforts to ensure that its teaching spaces are wheelchair accessible. Other specific needs are considered and taken up on an individual basis.

The College also actively supports students with specific learning difficulties (e.g. dyslexia), and provisions are made to ensure that all students, regardless of specific difficulty/disability, derive full benefit from the learning environment. In addition to specialist advice and assistance within the College, the Department ensures that module materials are suitable for all students and, where necessary, these are altered to meet the requirements of individual students. Where necessary, the location and length of examinations are individually tailored to ensure that no student is at a disadvantage as regards assessment.

The College also provides a range of other student support services. Details can be found on the College web site (www.goldsmiths.ac.uk). Students have access to the College Library, Multi-media, Audio-Visual Study resources and Computer Services and Language Resources and these provide a substantial means of supporting other aspects of your learning.

ICCE currently has 4 Entrepreneurial Fellows whose businesses operate as social enterprises. ICCE has strong relationships with a number of social enterprises and Ambassadors for Social Enterprise and they will be contributing to the programme through contributing teaching, projects and work placements.
Resources
Support for student learning is provided by the study resources that are available in the Rutherford Building: extensive book and audio-visual collections, computer and multi-media equipment, Library and IT staff with expert knowledge. All registered students also have access to the University of London libraries network.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and career prospects

It is intended that students completing this programme will seek employment primarily in two areas. Developing a career within cultural organisations in both the state and independent sectors from large building based venues to small scale specialist or touring organisations. Or contribute to the cultural support infrastructure from government at local, national or international level, or to independent cultural organisations operating in the same field including NGOs. Others may wish to work independently in a new or existing interdisciplinary organisation utilising their own ‘expertise’, ‘consultancy’ or ‘knowledge’. It is understood that many careers will cross sectors and art-forms and students will be equipped to take advantage of this.

Partners in Learning
An indicative list - The Majority are used by MA Arts Administration and Cultural Policy, some by MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship. There are also many others we call upon for specialist input. Personnel from all of the below have either taught or provided a placement in their organisation (in many cases both) on the programme, some for the last 8 years. Alumni also now work for a number of them.

The requirements of a Goldsmiths degree

Master’s Degrees
All Master’s degrees at Goldsmiths have a minimum value of 180 credits. Programmes are comprised of modules which have individual credit values. In order to be eligible for the award of a Master's degree students must have passed all modules on the programme.
Intermediate Exit Points
Some programmes incorporate intermediate exit points of Postgraduate Certificate and Postgraduate Diploma, which may be awarded on the successful completion of modules to the value of 60 credits or 120 credits respectively. Individual programmes may specify which, if any, combination of modules are required in order to be eligible for the award of these qualifications. The awards are made without classification.

Final Classification
There are four possible categories of final classification for Master's degrees: Distinction, Merit, Pass and Fail.

In order to be awarded an overall classification of Distinction, students should have obtained:

- a mark of at least 70% (or A grade) for the dissertation/project (or equivalent)
  AND
- EITHER a mark of 70% (or A grade) in at least half of the remaining credits.
  OR an overall weighted average mark (based on credit value) of at least 70%

In order to be awarded an overall classification of Merit, students should have obtained:

- a mark of at least 60% (or B grade) for the dissertation/project (or equivalent)
  AND
- EITHER a mark of 60% (or B grade) in at least half of the remaining credits.
  OR an overall weighted average mark (based on credit value) of at least 60%

Pass: In order to be awarded an overall classification of Pass must have passed all the modules on a programme but not have met the criteria for the award of an overall classification of Merit or Distinction

Fail: If any module on a programme has been failed on more than one occasion the programme will be failed

For further information, please refer to the Regulations for Postgraduate Taught Students, which may be found here: http://www.gold.ac.uk/governance/studentregulations/

Programme-specific rules and facts
The programme complies with Academic regulations. However, it should be noted that in what regards the part-time pathway of the programme, the following rules apply:

- The dissertation can only be submitted in Year 2.
- Part-time students must normally pass all assessments taken in Year One before proceeding to Year Two. The minimum number of modules to be able to progress to the second year is 60 Credits.

How teaching quality will be monitored
Goldsmiths employs a number of methods to ensure and enhance the quality of learning and teaching on its programmes.

Programmes and modules must be formally approved against national standards and are monitored throughout the year in departmental staff / student forums and through the completion of module evaluation questionnaires. Every programme also has at least one External Examiner who produces an annual report which comments on the standards of awards and student achievement.
This output is considered with other relevant data in the process of Annual Programme Review, to which all programmes are subject, and which aims to identify both good practice and issues which require resolution.

Every six years all programmes within a department are also subject to a broader periodic review. This aims to ensure that they remain current, that the procedures to maintain the standards of the awards are working effectively and the quality of the learning opportunities and information provided to students and applicants is appropriate.

Detailed information on all of these procedures are published on the webpages of the Quality Office (http://www.gold.ac.uk/quality/).
