

DAPHNE III questionnaire: Interventions for cyberbullying

DAPHNE III is a series of EU-funded projects. This DAPHNE III project (2010-2012) aims to build on the findings of a previous DAPHNE II project (2007-2009) which focused on cyberbullying in secondary schools.

This questionnaire is about the type of guidance; resources and interventions that secondary schools in England use to prevent and respond to cyberbullying. Teaching and training in e-safety for staff and students is included as part of the prevention of cyberbullying. We are interested in how many resources and interventions you have used and your opinions on their usefulness and effectiveness.

Please answer as many questions as you can in this survey and return it by the end of term as we are working on a tight time schedule. There is an envelope included with the questionnaire for you to return the survey to us.

Alternatively, you can access an electronic version of the questionnaire at our website:

<http://www.goldsmiths.ac.uk/psychology/research/usfs.php> and either:

- email it back to f.thompson@gold.ac.uk or
- fax it to Fran Thompson, Unit for School and Family Studies on 020-7919-7873

Please help us achieve a good response rate, and hence valid and useful findings for everyone. The information you provide is for research purposes only and we will not identify any school or informant by name in our final report, or in any publications.

By completing the questionnaire we will assume that you have consented for your data to be used in our research. Your participation is entirely voluntary and you may withdraw your data at any time.

Feel free to contact us for any further information. Thank you very much for your help.

Responding to cyberbullying

Q26: Have you used serious talks to respond to cyberbullying?

Serious talks are an initial discussion between a teacher and the students involved in a cyberbullying incident which are not yet part of further direct sanctions; restorative approaches or the support group method.

<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is and I've used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is but I haven't used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it but I'm not sure what it is.	<input type="radio"/> I've never heard of it.
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------	-----------------------------------------------

If you have used serious talks to respond to cyberbullying, please answer the following questions. If you have not, please go to Q 27.

How effective were the serious talks as a response to cyberbullying?

Very effective     Effective     Unsure     Not effective     Very ineffective

Comments:

Q27: Have you used restorative approaches to respond to cyberbullying?

Restorative approaches are a range of flexible responses, which includes problem-solving circles; restorative discussions; restorative reconnection meetings between staff and pupils; restorative thinking plans; mini-conferences; classroom conferences and full restorative conferences. Restorative approaches work to resolve conflict and repair harm, encouraging those who have caused harm to acknowledge the impact of what they have done and make reparation (e.g. International Institute of Restorative Practice; Margaret Thosborne; Belinda Hopkins or local authority training).

<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is and I've used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is but I haven't used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it but I'm not sure what it is.	<input type="radio"/> I've never heard of it.
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------	-----------------------------------------------

If you have used restorative approaches to respond to cyberbullying, please answer the following questions. If you have not, please go to Q 28.

How effective were the restorative approaches as a response to cyberbullying?

Very effective     Effective     Unsure     Not effective     Very ineffective

Comments:

Q28: Have you used the support group method to respond to cyberbullying?

The support group method (Maines and Robinson, 1991) uses a group-based approach to respond to a bullying incident, following seven steps. In a group meeting, a facilitator explains to the group that the bullied pupil has a problem. The bullying pupil(s) are not required to acknowledge that they themselves had taken part in the bullying, but the facilitator emphasises that all participants must take joint responsibility to help the bullied pupil feel safe.

<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is and I've used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is but I haven't used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it but I'm not sure what it is.	<input type="radio"/> I've never heard of it.
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------------------------------------------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------------------	-----------------------------------------------

If you have used the support group method to respond to cyberbullying, please answer the following questions. If you have not, please go to Q 29.

How effective was the support group method as a response to cyberbullying?
<input type="checkbox"/> Very effective <input type="checkbox"/> Effective <input type="checkbox"/> Unsure <input type="checkbox"/> Not effective <input type="checkbox"/> Very ineffective
Comments:

Q29: Have you used direct sanctions to respond to cyberbullying?
Direct sanctions are not so much one strategy or method, but a collective term describing a range of disciplinary procedures used by schools. Sanctions range from verbal reprimands; meetings with parents; temporary removals from class; withdrawal of privileges; school community service; detentions and internal exclusion in a special room; short-term exclusion; and permanent exclusion.
<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is and I've used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it, I know what it is but I haven't used it.	<input type="radio"/> I've heard of it but I'm not sure what it is.	<input type="radio"/> I've never heard of it.

If you have used direct sanctions to respond to cyberbullying, please answer the following questions. If you have not, please go to Q 30.

How effective were the direct sanctions as a response to cyberbullying?
<input type="checkbox"/> Very effective <input type="checkbox"/> Effective <input type="checkbox"/> Unsure <input type="checkbox"/> Not effective <input type="checkbox"/> Very ineffective
