Programme overview

This dedicated degree programme gives you the opportunity to read across a varied range of literary and critical works from both sides of the Atlantic. You'll be able to examine American literary and cultural contexts, the formation of an American literary aesthetic from Puritan times to the present day, and the critical concepts and ideologies that shape the American nation. You will cultivate an understanding of the main cultural, historical and political concepts underpinning America and its literatures, and be introduced to selected works spanning literary history from Homer to the present day.

The programme offers a challenging, flexible scheme of study invigorated by current research, which advances your powers of engagement with literatures from the USA and literatures in English.

Programme entry requirements

The typical GCE A-level offer is BBB (or equivalent points score). Grade B in A-level English Literature (or Language and Literature) required; A-level General Studies is not accepted.

Qualifications considered equivalent to GCE A-level BBB:

- BTEC: DDM
- IB: 33 Points, HL655
- Access: 60 credits overall with 30 distinctions and distinctions/merits in related subject.

Aims of the programme

The programme aims to:

1. enable students to compare critically American and English texts and their cultural and theoretical contexts
2. promote independent critical, analytical and evaluative skills, and intellectual curiosity
3. expand your knowledge and understanding of cultural, historical and regional evolutions and continuities of literatures in English (and in translation into English)
4. foster your awareness of a range of differing contextual approaches to the subject
5. develop your understanding of the diverse and sometimes conflicting ways in which literary texts have been interpreted and are being reinterpreted
6. promote your analytical, creative and imaginative engagement with the complexities of literary and non-literary discourse
7. stimulate your appreciation of genre and literary forms and conventions
8. encourage self-development into professionally organised and interactive individuals by practising skills of selection, assimilation and communication in both written and oral domains
9. facilitate a learning environment which promotes continuing enthusiasm for the subject and offers an appropriate foundation for further study of literatures and related disciplines.

What you will be expected to achieve
By the end of the programme you should be able to demonstrate:

How you will learn

The Department is committed to the centrality of the seminar in the teaching and learning process. All modules provide a weekly seminar, which reinforces knowledge gained through reading, lectures and presentations, and enables you to enhance and develop your understanding. At Level 4 learning is through weekly 1-hr lectures complementary weekly 1-hr seminars, or through 2-hr seminar. The strategy for teaching at Levels 5 and 6 allows considerable freedom of choice while ensuring a balanced experience of the differing emphases of outcome through the range of modules. The Level-6 dissertation allows for guided independent research. At all levels your knowledge and understanding is enhanced through self-directed study.

Developing knowledge and understanding
The four Level-4 modules, which include a survey module, a methods module, a poetry module and a 'period' module, support and develop all of programme outcomes A1-A8. The national requirement of acquiring knowledge of pre-1800 literature is initiated by including pre-1800 texts in three Level-4 modules, and sustained by requiring all students to take at least two modules covering pre-1800 texts at Level 5.
Developing thinking (cognitive/intellectual) skills
Cognitive and thinking skills are cultivated across the curriculum. Through seminars and lectures you are continuously exposed to—and encouraged to evolve—fresh perceptions and evaluations of literary language; through participation in seminars, you are encouraged to consider and respond to alternative views, and formulate your interpretations; and through self-managed learning you assimilate further and experiment with such perceptions and analyses.

Developing practical (including subject-specific) skills
Subject-specific skills are cultivated across the curriculum, though with varying emphases from module to module. In addition, the English Undergraduate Handbook provides initial advice on aspects of C5, and Information Services on aspects of C6. Suitable bibliographical information is normative for each module and its efficacy tested in student evaluation. Level-4 modules (especially but not exclusively ‘Approaches to Text’) give a grounding in C3 and C7, and modules at Levels 5 and 6 build less formally on that grounding. Non-assessed coursework and draft portfolio assignments constitute a valuable filter to help you acquire C5-C7. C8 is particularly—though not exclusively—addressed in the Level-6 dissertation and facilitated by an initial meeting, a guidance sheet and supervision. Tutor feedback on essays also supports C5-C7. Seminars are the forum for C9.

Developing transferable skills
Powers of expression and discussion, and the handling of ideas, are developed everywhere in the programme, since all modules require production of written work that communicates and argues well (see the Department's assessment criteria) and all modules use seminar discussion as part of the learning process. Members of staff provide module-specific help with D2. D3-D4 should be demonstrated by staff and peer example, and are enhanced through feedback on work. D5 is a crucial skill everywhere fostered in a time-tabled curriculum; the Department eases the demands through staff liaison over in-module deadlines, and through early provision of essay questions. Personal Tutors are a potential source of individual guidance on time-management and on Personal Development.

Weekly (at Level 4) or fortnightly (at Levels 5 and 6) Practical Academic Skills and Strategies (PASS) sessions further support the Programme outcomes.

How you will be assessed
Learning outcomes appropriate to each module and to the programme as a whole are assessed by a range of methods. All modules have formative coursework (either in the form of required assignments which do not however contribute to the final mark for the module, or drafts of assignments for later formal ‘portfolio’ assessment) providing you with feedback and indications of progress. Summative assessment is typically either by portfolio of assignments (essays, projects, creative pieces), or by final unseen exam or by a combination of the two. Prior-disclosure (and part-prior-disclosure) exams are also in use, as are examinations of less than three hours duration (where another form of assessment is also involved in the same module). Another form of summative assessment is the level-6 dissertation (6–8,000 words), which is written on a topic chosen in consultation with a supervisor and which will display and combine knowledge, understanding and methods gained throughout the levels of the BA English programme.

Cognitive and Thinking Skills are assessed widely in your written assignments and examinations. (Some elements of assessment focus on particular skills; e.g. exam context questions for some modules at Level 5 robustly test B5.) The subject-specific skills in C1-7 are tested through the variety of assessment methods in use in the Department. C8 is assessed in a number of modules, and especially in the dissertation. C9 is included among the Department’s measures of student progress but for technical reasons (policies on anonymity, verification) it is informally assessed.

D1-D7 are persistently tested during the programme through the requirement to produce, by specified dates, written discussions and other assignments, through the dissertation project, and through the curriculum-wide adoption of seminars as one key learning medium. Attainment in D1-D7 is measured in written degree work of all kinds. D8 is an ubiquitous element of the curriculum: it is subject to formative tutor assessment by oral feedback.

Achievement of outcomes is assessed through written work in relation to a module’s and the programme’s outcomes with regard to (a) the Department’s general assessment criteria, (b) the particular assessment criteria identified for a given module, and (c) the requirements of the specific essay or assignment or examination answer undertaken.

The Department’s general assessment criteria for written work are as follows and (except where the nature of the assignment is not a critical essay) you are advised to bear them in mind throughout your work in your degree programme:

1. Relevance of discussion and argument to the topic; ability to discriminate between merely descriptive statements and critical analysis, and to identify pertinent issues with precision;
2. Ability to present, sustain and conclude in expressive language a discussion, investigation or complex argument based on close and imaginative engagement with the text(s) in question, and to draw reasoned and logical conclusions;
3. Clarity of the work in terms of legibility, spelling, punctuation and grammar; and the professionalism of the presentation in accordance with the guidelines on ‘Writing and Presenting Essays’ in the English Undergraduate Handbook.

Coursework submitted for formative assessment will be returned with a broad advisory classification; summative assessment is assigned a percentage mark. The following explanations indicate how marks are assigned, but note that criteria are flexible: an excellent discussion may be compromised by poor expression or organisation; an eloquent argument may be fundamentally irrelevant. Examples of other factors adversely affecting a mark would be repetition, or manifest incompleteness or serious failure to meet the prescribed length.

How the programme is structured

The programme is available in full-time (3 years) and part-time (4-6 years) modes. All students take modules worth 360 credits, 120 in each year for full-timers. If you are a full-time student, you are required to have passed modules to a minimum of 90 credits each year before proceeding. Three level-4 modules form a foundation and are compulsory (one of these modules, Approaches to Text, includes weekly sessions on Practical Academic Skills and Strategies, or “PASS”); students also have a choice between a poetry module or a period module to complete their requirement for the first year. Subsequent modules are designed specifically as either Level 5 or Level 6, and are taken by full-time students in the second and third years respectively.

At Level 5, EAL students must take one core American module (Inventing the Nation, 30 credits) and one compulsory (Further Studies in American Literature & Culture, 30 credits) and two other ECL modules (60 credits), of which at least one module must be from those designated by the Department as encompassing pre-1800 literature. These are indicated in the list of Level-5 modules below by an asterisk. (NB: In any given year some modules may be temporarily suspended owing to staffing changes/sabbatical leave.)

*Drama & Transgression
European Cinema

Academic support

Support for learning and wellbeing is provided in number of ways by departments and College support services who work collaboratively to ensure students get the right help to reach their best potential both academically and personally.

Students are allocated a personal tutor and a Senior Tutor in each department has overall responsibility for student progress and welfare. Departments arrange regular communication to students in the form of mailings and meetings as well as regular progress reports and feedback on coursework and assignments. This is in addition to scheduled seminars, tutorials and lectures/workshops.

Personal tutors will invite students to meet in the first two weeks of a new term and regularly throughout the duration of a programme of study. These meetings aim to discuss progress on modules, discussion of the academic discipline and reports from previous years if available (for continuing students). This way progress, attendance, essay/coursework/assessment marks can be reviewed and an informed discussion can be about how to strengthen learning and success.

Students are sent information about learning resources in the Library and on the VLE so that they have access to programme handbooks, programme information and support related information and guidance. Timetables are sent in advance of the start of term so that students can begin to manage their preparation and planning.

Taught sessions and lectures provide overviews of coursework themes, which students are encouraged to complement with intensive reading for presentation and discussion with peers at seminars. Coursework essays build on lectures and seminars so students are encouraged to attend all taught sessions to build knowledge and their own understanding of their chosen discipline.

In depth feedback is provided for written assignments and essays via written feedback forms and Formative feedback with module tutors/leads is provided to ensure that students' work is on the right track. Feedback comes in many forms and not only as a result of written comments on a marked essay. Students are given feedback on developing projects and practice as they attend workshops and placements.

Students may be referred to specialist student services by department staff or they may access support services independently. Information about support services is clearly provided on the College Website and as new students join Goldsmiths through new starter information and induction/Welcome Week. Any support recommendations that are made are agreed with the student and communicated to the department so that adjustments to learning & teaching are able to be implemented at a department level and students can be reassured that arrangements are in place. Opportunities are provided for students to review their support arrangements should their circumstances change. The Inclusion & Learning Support and Wellbeing Teams maintain case loads of students and provide on-going support.

The Careers Service provides central support for skills enhancement, running the Gold Award Scheme and other co-curricular activities that are accredited via the higher education achievement award (HEAR).

The Academic Skills Centre works with academic departments offering bespoke academic literacy sessions. It also provides a programme of academic skills workshops and one-to-one provision throughout the year, which students can access directly at gold.ac.uk/eas/.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and career prospects

Although not vocational in the narrow sense of the word, the degree does develop linguistic and critical skills that provide a sound basis for careers in areas including journalism, the media, publishing, the Civil Service, local government, teaching and research, and the commercial world. The programme’s emphasis on the development of critical and analytical skills, on achieving proficiency in assessing evidence and in expressing ideas clearly, its commitment to enhancing the ability to bring together insights from a range of subjects, and providing a thorough education in the reading and comparison of texts from diverse cultures are all attributes that are attractive to prospective employers. Our graduates learn to think critically and creatively, to solve problems, and to communicate with clarity. If you obtain a good degree you may consider postgraduate study – undertaking original research or studying for a professional qualification – at Goldsmiths College or elsewhere. Most recent statistics regarding our graduates indicate that a significant percentage gain employment or a place on a postgraduate course of study within a few months of leaving the College. If you obtain a good degree you may consider postgraduate study – undertaking original research or studying for a professional qualification – at Goldsmiths College or elsewhere. Most recent statistics regarding our graduates indicate that only one in ten fails to gain employment or a place on a postgraduate module of study after they leave the College.

Goldsmiths also offers a range of opportunities, including Master’s and Doctoral programmes, taught diplomas and certificates, and a Postgraduate Certificate in Education for prospective teachers.

The requirements of a Goldsmiths degree

Undergraduate degrees have a total value of 360 credits. They are composed of individual modules, each of which has its own credit value. Full-time students take modules to the value of 120 credits each year and part-time students not less than 45 credits and not more than 90 credits each year. Each full–time year corresponds to a level of the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications.

Year 1 = Level 4
Year 2 = Level 5
Year 3 = Level 6
Modules:
Modules are defined as:
“Optional” – which can be chosen from a group of modules
“Compulsory” – which must be taken as part of the degree
“Core” – which must be taken as part of the degree and passed with a mark of at least 40%.

Progression:
Full-time students are required to have passed modules to a minimum of 90 credits before proceeding to the next year. Part-time students normally must pass new modules to a minimum value of 45 credits before proceeding to the next year.
In addition, some programmes may specify particular modules which must be passed, irrespective of the minimum requirements, before proceeding to the next year.

Award of the degree:
In order to graduate with a classified degree, students must successfully complete modules to the value of 360 credits. However if a module which has not be defined as “core” has been failed with a mark of 35-39% and all three permitted attempts have been used, this module may be compensated (treated as if it has been passed) so long as the average mean mark for all 120 credits at that level is 45% or above.
No more than 60 credits may be compensated this way across a programme and no more than 30 at any one level.

Classification:
Final degree classification will be calculated on the basis of a student's best marks for modules equivalent to 90 credits at Level 4, 105 credits at level 5 and 105 credits at level 6, applying a relative weighting of 1:3:5 to modules at level 4, 5 and 6 respectively

Degrees are awarded with the following classifications:
First Class – 70%+
Upper Second – 60-69%
Lower Second – 50-59%
Third – 40-49%

Students who, following the application of compensation and having used all their permitted resit attempts, have passed modules to the value of 300-345 credits, at least 60 of which are at level 6 may be awarded a pass degree

The above information is intended as a guide. For further information, please refer to the Regulations for Undergraduate Students, which may be found here: http://www.gold.ac.uk/governance/studentregulations/

Programme-specific rules and facts
This programme specification summarizes the BA in English at Goldsmiths University of London, identifying learning outcomes and skills that you should typically achieve by engaging fully in the learning process that is offered. Further details of the components of the programme can be found on line at www.gold.ac.uk/ and are also available from the Programme Co-ordinator in the Department of English & Comparative Literature.

How teaching quality will be monitored
Goldsmiths employs a number of methods to ensure and enhance the quality of learning and teaching on its programmes.

Programmes and modules must be formally approved against national standards and are monitored throughout the year in departmental staff / student forums and through the completion of module evaluation questionnaires. Every programme also has at least one External Examiner who produces an annual report which comments on the standards of awards and student achievement.

This output is considered with other relevant data in the process of Annual Programme Review, to which all programmes are subject, and which aims to identify both good practice and issues which require resolution.

Every six years all programmes within a department are also subject to a broader periodic review. This aims to ensure that they remain current, that the procedures to maintain the standards of the awards are working effectively and the quality of the learning opportunities and information provided to students and applicants is appropriate.

Detailed information on all of these procedures are published on the webpages of the Quality Office (http://www.gold.ac.uk/quality/).
