Programme overview

This is a four-year degree programme at Goldsmiths, University of London. The Foundation Year offers an overview of literary history, and includes components in Renaissance studies, eighteenth-century literature, Victorian literature and modernism. Novels, plays and poetry will be studied, and a variety of approaches to literary criticism are discussed and critically assessed. You also learn study skills, and critically evaluate your own work in individual tutorials. If you successfully achieve the progression requirements of the foundation year, you will automatically progress to the full-time three-year BA (Hons) programme in English; you can also request to progress to the BA (Hons) English and American Literature, the BA (Hons) English and Comparative Literature, or the BA (Hons) English Language and Literature, as part of a four-year Integrated degree. If you wish to transfer to English programmes other than these, you must make an application, which will be considered, and may be subject to additional admission requirements.

*Only the Foundation Year itself is described in this specification.

For the remaining years of the Integrated Degree in English, or for the BA in English and American Literature, the BA English and Comparative Literature, or the BA English Language and Literature, please refer to the Programme Specification for the BA (English)

How you will learn

All programme outcomes (A, B, C and D) are delivered through a variety of teaching methods including lectures, seminars and study skills workshops.

There is a strong emphasis on student participation through group discussion, practical exercises and student presentations. The teaching of study skills is incorporated into the programme and delivered both through the teaching of literature and in specific contexts, including a Study-Skills Workshop in the Autumn Term that runs alongside the literature seminars.
How you will be assessed

Your work will be assessed through coursework (approximately 1500 words for each module), a series of exercises taking place through the year, and final written examination, via four modules.

You will write one coursework essay and carry out assessed exercises on each of the following:
- 16th and 17th-century Literature
- Restoration and 18th-century Literature
- 19th-century Literature
- 20th-century Literature

Examinations: You will sit two two-hour written examination papers at the end of the Foundation Year. Each paper requires you to answer two questions.
- Examination 1: one question on Poetry from the 16th-century to the Present Day and one question on Restoration and 18th-century Literature
- Examination 2: one question on 19th-century Literature and one question on 20th-century Literature

Academic support

Personal and study skills support from the Department

Students on this programme are supported by subject tutors who provide consistent and uninterrupted tuition throughout the programme. Personal tutors will monitor the student’s progress and providing feedback about the student’s general development on the programme. The personal tutor also helps students access additional College support where necessary. In addition, a specified induction period, mock exams, and a specified revision period are normally provided as timetabled events in the academic calendar.

College Support

Goldsmiths provides a wide range of pastoral services to support students. Student Advice and Wellbeing provides assistance with practical issues including funding and housing, support for mental health and a Chaplaincy linked to local faith communities. We have an agreement with a local NHS doctors surgery to provide medical services to our students. Our Inclusion and Learning Support team provide sessions to help students improve their academic skills and they are able to arrange support and reasonable adjustments for disabled students including access to assistive technology.

For students whose first language is not English, the English Language Centre provides instruction in English language and English for Academic Purposes through tailor-made timetables of study skill sessions. Via the ELC, students are also able to consult the Royal Literary Fund Fellows, professional writers who visit Goldsmiths to foster good writing practice across all disciplines and media.

Students are encouraged to develop and maintain an Higher Education Achievement Report during the course of study. This can record aspirations, plans and goals, record achievement against goals and enable progress monitoring. Further details can be found on the College web site (www.goldsmiths.ac.uk).

Learning resources
Support for independent study is through the conjoined library and electronic resources in the Rutherford Building, which, as well as books and journals (in hard copy or electronic format) also hosts a large collection of multimedia and audiovisual material. You are also encouraged to use the extensive collections of Senate House Library (the central University of London Library). Guided Tours and training in the facilities of Senate House Library will be provided. Video and other audio-visual media are strategically used in parts of the programme.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and career prospects
The programme is intended to lead directly into Year 1 of the BA (Hons) English programme. Each year, graduating students from the BA find work in the cultural and heritage industries, media, local and national government, teaching and research, law and business.

How teaching quality will be monitored

Goldsmiths employs a number of methods to ensure and enhance the quality of learning and teaching on its programmes.

Programmes and modules must be formally approved against national standards and are monitored throughout the year in departmental staff / student forums and through the completion of module evaluation questionnaires. Every programme also has at least one External Examiner who produces an annual report which comments on the standards of awards and student achievement.

This output is considered with other relevant data in the process of Annual Programme Review, to which all programmes are subject, and which aims to identify both good practice and issues which require resolution.

Every six years all programmes within a department are also subject to a broader periodic review. This aims to ensure that they remain current, that the procedures to maintain the standards of the awards are working effectively and the quality of the learning opportunities and information provided to students and applicants is appropriate.

Detailed information on all of these procedures are published on the webpages of the Quality Office (http://www.gold.ac.uk/quality/).
