Overview of programme changes

Goldsmiths has needed to make changes to the way in which its programmes will be taught in 2020-21 in response to the ongoing global Covid-19 pandemic. This means that all programmes will be taught through a mix of online and in-person teaching sessions in 2020-21*.

In some instances changes have also been made to assessment formats where necessary.

This addenda summarises approved changes that will be in place for 2020-21. Further programme information is provided in the published programme specification.

On-campus time is subject to tutor availability and government health and safety guidance.

Update 7 January 2021: Spring Term

As these changes mean that all taught sessions on your programme will be delivered online for the Spring Term 2021, four additional (non-assessed) face-to-face sessions will be offered to you.

1. Careers in the Media and Creative Industries

The list of industries your degree could lead to a job in is endless - everything from advertising, animation, digital marketing, film, interactive media, journalism, post-production, publishing, radio, scriptwriting, television, web design to name just a few. But how are you going to stand out from other graduates trying to get into this competitive industry? This introductory session will look at how you can make the most of your time studying at Goldsmiths and increase your employability alongside your studies. Goldsmiths careers consultant Karen MacIntyre has a wealth of experience from across the creative industries, including roles managing creative departments at the BBC such as graphic design, post production, make up, costume and wardrobe, and is passionate about ensuring students from under represented backgrounds can enjoy careers in the creative industries. You'll also hear from the Department's Internships and Work Placements Manager, Rachael Boxill, who has 14 years of experience working in the television industry and knows how to get your foot in the door having done it herself!

This session will take place on Friday 26 February 2021 at 2-3pm.

2. We Refugees

77 years ago Hannah Arendt published her short article 'We Refugees'. A refugee herself, Arendt goes beyond the condition of refugee and person without a country and proposes that we should see this as the condition of a new historical consciousness. This session revisits Arendt's brief essay in the light of the ongoing 'refugee crisis' to explore if her analysis has lost any of its currency in the 'age of globalization' and the 'decline of nation-state'. Talk by Gholam Khiabany.

This talk will take place on Friday 12 March 2021 at 2-3pm.

3. The relationship between theory and practice

This lecture will be led by Ceiren Bell and Jacob Love. It will take place on Friday 19 March 2021 at 2-3pm.

4. Environmental and racial justice: a campus tour

Suggested preparation: 18 minute podcast on 'The coloniality of planting'. This session will be led by Shela Sheikh and take place on Friday 26 March 2021 at 11am-12pm.
