Programme overview

This Masters programme, with an exit route at Postgraduate Certificate and Diploma level, is attractive to undergraduates and professionals who have studied or are working an area of cultural and social innovation, creative study/practice, such as music, media, theatre, design or have a studied business or management studies, or are working in social, creative or cultural enterprise and who wish to either:

- Develop an enterprise arising from an existing cultural practice. These enterprises will be varied and may relate directly to a 'product' or 'process' arising from your practice or to a form of 'expertise', 'consultancy' or 'knowledge';
- Work as an 'intrapreneur', improving existing enterprises and developing stronger impact from the processes;
- To understand how to create the infrastructure and environment for new creative, social and cultural enterprises to flourish in a variety of context e.g. city, rural, regional, national and global.

Specialist pathways with named awards allow you to develop understanding and focused approaches to creative entrepreneurship in the discipline areas:

MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship Computing Pathway develops your ability to work effectively to develop a tech or creative computing idea in to an entrepreneurial plan, developing understanding of contemporary concerns in computing and the values systems in the industry sector.

MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship Design Pathway develops your ability to critique and employ methods and processes of design thinking and innovation theory to your entrepreneurial idea.

MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship Design Management pathway develops your skills in working with designers, developing strategies to manage both the creative and the designed outputs. It develops a criticality

MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship Social Innovation Pathway The MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship Impact pathway develops a critical appreciation of social impact evaluation and management principles, processes and practices across industries, cultures and localities.

The programme will be equally attractive to applicants from the UK and globally, with a clear target audience of people who wish to explore whether developing and running a creative or social enterprise is appropriate for them. It is possible that applicants may be employed in roles that encompass areas of policy development in relation to the Cultural Industries or social innovation, or as part of the ecosystem of enterprise support locally or globally. It will also appeal to people who have created their own enterprise and are looking for critical insights in to sustaining this.

In addition, the programme is designed to attract early career professional working in the creative and cultural industries, social innovation or running or working in SMEs who may wish to do all or part of the programme. Indeed, some of the programme's modules are designed to be free-standing Continuing Professional Development modules offered by Goldsmiths.

A strength of the programmes is that the cohort has a range of subject specialisms and experiences, this enhances the peer learning and network.

You will benefit from studying in the interdisciplinary environment of Goldsmiths and in London, one of world's leading cities; where creative and cultural industries and social innovation play a major part in the economy and in the fabric of society.

In order to develop you as strong reflective practitioners, this masters degree is taught in partnership by a number of departments within Goldsmiths and with key individuals and organisations in the creative and cultural industries and social innovation sectors, both from the UK and globally.

The educational aims of this programme are informed by Goldsmiths' and our partner institutions' declared focus on 'the study of creative, cultural and social processes'. Our collective approach is to integrate entrepreneurship within the development of creative practices and to take an innovative approach to the development of new businesses and the infrastructure that support them. We aim to develop the global creative and social economy through developing new forms of creative sustainable business models as well as gaining understanding of the barriers to the growth and sustainability for creative and social enterprises.

This programme is designed to allow you to continue to innovate in an equitable way– their sector, new products, services, processes or business models, and to provide the requisite business/ entrepreneurial skills and attributes to commercialise your creative and cultural practices and/or knowledge. They will apply creative and critical thinking develop innovative business models. You will be able to build on a historical and theoretical understanding of forms of capital and how they relate to creative, social and cultural enterprise, social innovation, cultural and creative industries and the development of a cultural economy to create your own creative initiatives, which might be research-based, policy-based, practice based, or a combination of such.

The programme aims:

- To enable you to build on their existing experience to develop entrepreneurial knowledge and skills within creative areas;
- To enable you to develop a critical understanding of interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary nature of both creative, social and cultural industries and entrepreneurship;
- To develop a criticality of social innovation and the creative industries and consider new, sustainable and ethical solutions for enterprise practice within them;
- To enable you to be able to analyse critically the entrepreneurial potential of an organisation.
- To provide the context for you to develop your own projects (research based or practical) in an environment where you will receive expert academic and practitioner supervision.
- To enable you to both engage with the key issues of the discipline and provide them with a body of work that can be used to develop a career within your chosen sector, by undertaking a dissertation or practice-based project portfolio;

How you will learn

Methods

Goldsmiths recognises the importance of supporting your learning with high-quality teaching on a predominantly group seminar/workshop basis with significant levels of individual tutorial support, particularly for independent projects. A significant amount of the learning will be delivered through peer-to-peer learning, problem-solving workshops, group projects and activities this are designed to develop your individual communication skills and an experience similar to that of the workplace environment as most organisations in the sector work in task-based teams. We ensure that the assessments are situated in both the learning and application of learning in future careers,

We expect you to spend up to 10 hours a week in terms 1 and 2 in group study, with approximately 20 hours a week in terms 1 and 2 in independent study. In Term 3 we expect you to spend up to 30 hours a week in independent study and 5 hours a week in peer to peer support. In term 4 we expect you to spend up to 30 hours a week in independent study.

We support you to develop strong skills as peer critical friends and mentors. These groups evolve through the programme and sustain beyond graduation. We have developed an approach to group learning that supports you to be confident, adaptable and develop your leadership and entrepreneurial potential. Supporting your “critical and creative thinking, complex problem solving, effective communication, collaboration, self-directed and lifelong learning and responsible citizenship” (Koh, 2017).

The programme’s teaching methods are designed to be inclusive and take a Commons approach (Glowacki-Dudka; Murray; and Concepción (2012); they have been co-designed with global industry professionals and we have tested materials and approaches with neurodiverse students. The approach challenges traditional hegemony, we use Team Teaching (Buckley, 1999) and our academic team works to facilitate learning together (Cohen 1990) ensuring diverse voices and experiences are valued equally in the learning.

Learning Opportunities

Expertise is provided by staff in all participating faculties who are not only dedicated, experienced lecturers but also distinguished practitioners and researchers in their own right, working in national and international contexts. This programme draws on a pool of visiting practitioners, academics and those working in creative cultural and social enterprises to provide a breadth of expertise and contact with current practice. This enables you to reflect on your study with professional creative and social entrepreneurs.

You also benefit from Goldsmiths’ Entrepreneurial Fellows, 6 individuals who are global experts in social and creative innovation. All of them give talks and are available for mentoring.

Studying Cultural, Social and Creative Entrepreneurship in London

The UK is also the largest exporter of Cultural Goods and Services in the world by percentage of its GDP. Many of these organisations are based in London, although the programme will also draw on relationships with creative organisations across the UK. These organisations provide a unique research and study resource. In addition, there are also further publicly accessible subject specific resources within industry support organisations such as – the Impact Hub network, ‘Creative Clusters’, business support agencies and regional development agencies both national and international.

Many students on the Programme come from overseas and make a valuable contribution to the learning environment by providing an international perspective on cultural, creative and entrepreneurial issues from their respective countries. In addition staff have considerable expertise and experience of working and researching internationally in areas that are directly relevant to the programme.

Programme entry requirements

This Masters Programme is aimed at recent graduates and those already working within creative and cultural industries and social enterprise. You should have an undergraduate degree in the social sciences, arts, design or humanities including the creative areas of drama, dance, visual arts, film, video or media or in an area of design, or in management or business studies, where you have not gained a first degree in the Pathway subject, they will be expected to have gained 3 years industry experience in the Pathway to be able to meet the knowledge level requirements of the Pathway.

It is likely that candidates will have already acted on an interest in developing an entrepreneurial approach to your own practice or that of colleagues (as part of a team), or an interest in developing the social innovation, creative and cultural industries infrastructure of a town/city/region.

A first-class or upper second Honours degree or its equivalent in a relevant discipline (outlined above) is normally required, applicants should demonstrate your own entrepreneurial potential through having initiated projects or gained insight in to how your sector works through practice.

Applicants without a first degree in the pathway subject, but who are able to demonstrate professional experience of working in or running your own creative enterprise and understanding of the discipline will be considered.

Applicants whose first language is not English will have to achieve a score of IELTS 6.5 or more (with a 6.5 or more in writing and listening) and will be encouraged while studying to use the resources of the- Centre for Academic Language and Literacies (CALL).

Applicants who have significant (5 years plus) experience in the cultural or creative industries, but no first degree will also be considered, and your ability to cope with the breadth of academic writing will be assessed.

Applicants will be required to write a proposal of your area of interest and an outline of your entrepreneurial idea. Advice will be given at Open Days and interview about the pathway choices.

Applications from people without formal qualifications in the chosen pathway should demonstrate professional experience in the written application. Applicants for the Design and Fashion pathway will be required to include a portfolio with the application.

Interviews will be undertaken in person or online. Applications will be initially processed by the programme director and Admissions Tutor to check for suitability to the programme with pathway departments offered the opportunity to review applications.

All applicants are required to submit a short pitch either as a paragraph or a short, filmed pitch, lasting no more than 3 minutes.

Marking and Grading criteria

Mark	Grade	Descriptor	Criteria
0%		Non submission or plagiarized assessment	A categorical mark representing either the failure to submit an assessment or a mark assigned for a plagiarized assessment
1-9%	F	Very bad fail	A submission that does not even attempt to address the specified learning outcomes (shall be deemed a non-valid attempt and unit must be re-sat).

10-29%	E	Bad fail	Represents a significant overall failure to achieve the appropriate learning outcomes. The work will be significantly flawed, not respect appropriate reading or knowledge of the subject area and will have attempted to address one of the learning outcomes, but not all of them.
30-49%	D	Fail	Represents an overall failure to achieve the appropriate learning outcomes. Marks in this range will reflect work that is significantly inconsistent or flawed in relation to all or some of the areas listed above. The work relies heavily on a very limited research and is descriptive rather than analytical in nature.
50-59%	C	Pass	Represents the overall achievement of the appropriate learning outcomes to a threshold level. Marks in this range will reflect solid competence and achievement, although the work might be partial rather than consistent in clarity, precision and effectiveness. (It might, for example, rely too heavily on secondary sources at the expense of personal critical activity; be insufficiently detailed; or tend towards description rather than analysis.) The work should be of good standard in the areas listed in the classification above or good in some areas and of a satisfactory standard in others.
60-69%	B	Good Merit	Represents the overall achievement of the appropriate learning outcomes to a good level. Some of the qualities of first-class work may be found in this category but the difference will be either of degree or realisation. The work will be characterised by soundness of argument or analysis, acquaintance with the field of study, coherence and relevance. The work should be of high merit in all these areas, or considerable merit in some areas and a good standard in others.

70- 79%	A	Excellent Distinction	Represents the overall achievement of the appropriate learning outcomes to an excellent level. Marks in this category will be awarded to work which shows conceptual and stylistic distinction; which features a secure and discriminating acquaintance with the field of study; which engages with the subject in a notably intelligent way; and which is clearly and accurately presented. The work will be of outstanding achievement in all or a consistent combination of the above areas.
80- 100%	A+	Outstanding Distinction	Represents the overall achievement of the appropriate learning outcomes to an exceptionally accomplished level. Marks in this category will be awarded for work which demonstrates a conceptual mastery of the material, is highly original and potentially shows new insights into both business and the application of creative process.

Programme structure

Progression requirements for part-time students

Part-time students will normally take a minimum of 2 modules in the first year of study and are encouraged to take Module 1, 2 and 5 in that first year of study, and 2 modules in the second year in addition to the Dissertation or Project Portfolio (module 6). Part-time students are required to pass gain 60 credits in Year One before proceeding to Year Two.

To maximise flexibility, some elements of the Masters programme will be made available as standalone CPD/short modules for example Entrepreneurial Modelling. In order to enable collaborative learning amongst those seeking to develop creative and cultural businesses and those already within them, we, wherever possible, teach all students together, irrespective of the particular route on which they are registered.

The Masters programme will contain taught modules and a further dissertation/portfolio component. Students have a range of choices through the degree enabling you to design a pathway that is most relevant to academic, business and career ambitions. Whilst all students will take modules 1, 3 and 5 there are many choices in some pathways for Module 2, and to support your chosen routes post-graduation, some choice in modules 4 and between a dissertation or project-portfolio for module 6. Attendance is mandatory for all taught sections of the programme.

Module 1: Theories of Capital (30 credits)

Theories of Capital critically examines key theories of social, economic, natural, intellectual, cultural and symbolic capital. This module provides students with strong foundations and learning that will weave into the further content of the programmes other modules and will equip students with a framework in the development of their enterprise ambition. The module details these conceptual capital frameworks and complements this theoretical foundation with application in the creative and cultural industries with a focus on the unique economic characteristics of the creative industries. This module explores, critiques and interrogates alternatives to the capitalist, Western-centric approach. The course will equip students to unpack the power structures that give rise to the notion of capital. Emphasis will be given on the role of intellectual capital in policy, both as a tool to incentivise innovation and a means to appropriate the knowledge of others. Students will be able to translate theory into practice, and practice into theory.

Module 2: Pathway Practice (30 credits)

In line with the ethos of this programme which seeks to foster the development of creativity and entrepreneurship as related activities, rather than bringing entrepreneurship or business to creativity, this module allows participants to continue to develop their understanding of a creative practice. This module, therefore, comprises studies in one area of practice e.g., music, theatre, design, creative computing etc. (It will normally be necessary for a student to have a background in the area they wish to continue to study as this module is primarily concerned with the creative discipline rather its management or entrepreneurial potential). However, many of the students already taking these modules do not come directly from an academic background in that particular discipline but have a keen interest and professional experience in it therefore these some of the option modules are designed to accommodate this approach.

The pathway on Entrepreneurial Leadership has been designed to support students with the ambition to lead either an organisation or take leadership of an artform area.

The Design and Fashion Management Pathways have been created to support students to develop the particular skills required to support a sustainable enterprise in these sectors while collaborating with creatives and manufacturers.

The social innovation pathway has been developed to support students with keen interest in developing an impact-enterprise.

Module 3: Entrepreneurial Modelling (30 credits)

This module aims to nurture the skills and attitudes of students to allow them to become innovators and to provide models of entrepreneurial/business support relevant and useful for creative entrepreneurs. This module will provide a link between the theoretical aspects of the broader overview of the sector and the practice specifics, and work to focus on how creativity can be strengthened when put through creative commercialisation modelling techniques.

It critically reviews key characteristics of successful enterprises, entrepreneurs and leaders, within the cultural and more commercially focussed creative industries. It questions what is determined as success and requires students to develop their own metrics for this. It looks at the range of business models that exist and review how best to build a financially sustainable organisation. The key areas of modelling techniques covered are:

- Relationship Modelling – this will assist students to understand the range of business models in the creative industries, and to create the most appropriate route to market; it will consider the relationship that the originator of the creative idea has to the production, distribution and the audience/customer/client; it uncovers the student’s relationship to “reward”.
- Evidence Modelling – this model uses Marshall McLuhan’s Tetrad Model to review the likely impact of the idea; it helps makes the enterprise tangible and to ensure that the entrepreneur remains in control of the effects of their ideas. Using the modelling technique helps students to articulate their values and the benefits of their ideas.
- Blueprint Modelling – an approach to creating an operating plan which will move their idea to market, articulating all of the activities and responsibilities required.
- Consequence Modelling – using all of the knowledge from the modelling techniques, this will uncover the financial consequences of the decisions made. It will introduce them to basic financial modelling concepts, and ensure they are comfortable with the financial language of creative entrepreneurs.
- Landscape Modelling will support students in placing their idea within societal contexts as well as ensuring it is reflected on with a contextual criticality.

Academic support

Support for learning and wellbeing is provided in a number of ways by departments and College support services who work collaboratively to ensure you get the right help to reach your best potential both academically and personally.

You are allocated a Personal Tutor who has overall responsibility for individual progress and welfare. Personal Tutors meet with you at least twice a year either face-to-face, as part of a group and/or electronically. The first meeting normally takes place within the first few weeks of the autumn term. Personal Tutors are also available to you throughout the year of study. These meetings aim to discuss progress on modules, discussion of the academic discipline and reports from previous years if available (for continuing students). This provides an opportunity for progress, attendance and assessment marks to be reviewed and an informed discussion to take place about how to strengthen individual learning and success. In addition, for the MA Creative and Cultural Entrepreneurship Tutorials are provided per module.

All students are also allocated a Senior Tutor to enable you to speak to an experienced academic member of staff about any issues which are negatively impacting their academic study, and which may be beyond the normal scope of issues handled by Programme Convenors and Personal Tutors.

You are supported to access learning resources, the library and information available on Learn. Gold \(VLE\) so that you have access to handbooks, programme information and support related information and guidance.

Taught sessions and lectures provide overviews of themes, which you are encouraged to complement with intensive reading for presentation and discussion with peers at seminars. Assessments build on lectures and seminars, so you are expected to attend all taught sessions to build knowledge and your own understanding of your chosen discipline.

Feedback is given in seminars, tutorials, group work and in addition all assessed work is accompanied by some form of feedback to ensure that your work is on the right track. It may come in a variety of forms ranging from written comments on a marked essay to oral and written feedback on developing projects and practice as you attend workshops.

You may be referred to specialist student services by department staff or you may access support services independently. Information about support services is provided on the Goldsmiths website and for new students through new starter information and induction/Welcome Week. Any support recommendations that are made are agreed with the you and communicated to the appropriate staff members so that adjustments to learning and teaching are able to be implemented and students can be reassured that arrangements are in place. Opportunities are provided for you to review your support arrangements should their circumstances change. The Disability and Wellbeing Services maintain caseloads of students and provide on-going support.

The Careers Service provides central support for skills enhancement, running The Gold Award scheme and other co-curricular activities that are accredited via the Higher Education Achievement Report (HEAR).

The Centre for Academic Language and Literacy works with academic departments offering bespoke academic literacy sessions. It also provides a programme of academic skills workshops and one-to one provision throughout the year. The Library also offers workshops and support for research and other study skills.

Placement opportunities

The focus of this programme is to give you the confidence, knowledge and platform to create an entity of their own or explore being intrapreneurial. Students should be spending the majority of their time contemplating and prototyping what it means to create that enterprise or make change in existing enterprises. While through our networks, we can make recommendations about placements, it is up to you to secure a placement of your own if you want. From the start of this programme you are encouraged to use their own skills, capacity and initiative to create opportunities for themselves and the future of your enterprise and career.

It is intended that people completing this programme will seek employment primarily in two areas. Firstly, as self-employed in your own enterprise, freelance, or as a member of a team of an SME developing a business arising from an existing, or new practice. These businesses will be varied and may relate directly to a 'product' or 'process' arising from your practice or to a form of 'expertise', 'consultancy' or 'knowledge'. You will also be qualified to seek employment in larger creative organisations in a more traditional way but being able to contribute a range of creative and business skills.

Secondly within government or NGO organisations concerned with developing the infrastructure and environment for new creative or socially-focused businesses to flourish in a variety of contexts e.g., city, rural, regional or national.

Anyone taking individual modules for CPD will be able to advance their careers within each of the above sectors and crucially develop the skills to move across the sectors or after a number of modules consider starting their own enterprise.

Employability and potential career opportunities

An indicative list - There are many others we call upon for specialist input. Personnel from all of the below have either taught or provided a placement in their organisation (in many cases both) on the programme, some for the last 8 years. Alumni also now work for many of them.

Programme-specific requirements

This Masters Programme is aimed at graduates and those already working within creative and cultural industries and social enterprise sectors. You should have an undergraduate degree in the social sciences, arts, design or humanities including the creative areas of drama, dance, visual arts, film, video or media or in an area of design, or in management or business studies, where you have not gained a first degree in the Pathway subject, you will be expected to have gained at least 3 years industry experience in the Pathway area to be able to meet the knowledge level requirements of the Pathway.

It is likely that candidates will have an interest in developing an entrepreneurial approach to practice or that of colleagues (as part of a team), or an interest in developing the creative and cultural industries infrastructure of a town/city/region.

A first-class or upper second Honours degree or its equivalent in a relevant discipline (outlined above) is normally required, applicants should demonstrate entrepreneurial potential through having initiated projects or gained insight in to how the sector works through practice. Applicants without a first degree in the pathway subject, but who are able to demonstrate professional experience of working in or running a creative or social enterprise and understanding of the discipline will be considered. Applicants whose first language is not English will have to achieve a score of IELTS 6.5 or more (with a 6.5 or more in writing and listening) and will be encouraged while studying to use the resources of the Centre for Academic Language and Literacies (CALL). Applicants who have significant (5 years plus) experience in the social sector or cultural or creative industries, but no first degree will also be considered, and their ability to cope with the breadth of academic writing will be assessed.

Applicants will be required to write a proposal articulating their area of interest and an pitch outlining their entrepreneurial idea. Advice will be given at Open Days and interview about the pathway choices.

Applications from people without formal qualifications in the chosen pathway should demonstrate professional experience in the application. Applicants for the Design and Fashion pathway will be required to include a portfolio in their application.

Interviews will be undertaken in person or online. Applications will be initially processed by the programme director and Admissions Tutor to check for suitability to the programme with pathway departments offered the opportunity to review applications.

CPD: Modules within this Masters programme can also be taken as Professional Development as 'stand-alone' modules. This can lead on a credit basis to the full Masters degree – progression to the dissertation /portfolio can be achieved by passing the four main modules.
