Programme overview

The programme is designed for educators at all levels, including practising teachers, those in informal learning contexts, and others interested more broadly in the field of education. The MA aims to deepen and extend undergraduate study if you have a first degree in education, and might also serve as a route by which you may 'convert' from your original discipline to the study of education, if you have the necessary qualifications and experience.

Teaching and learning activity on the programme supports you in critically investigating current research relating to the effects of culture and language and identity on aspects of educational processes. The programme encourages you to develop an advanced and critical understanding of educational theory and practice. Its modular structure allows for specialisation in the areas of equity and social justice, schooling, and language and culture in education.

We expect you to develop inclusive and alternative perspectives on education, develop strategies for teaching and learning through a systematic process of reasoned critical reflection, and to apply this understanding creatively to issues in your own practice. Teaching sessions and personal tutorials focus on supporting you to bring together reading and reflections from your own learning and teaching experiences, enabling you to develop a better informed, more analytical approach to educational processes. As well as subject-specific knowledge and skills, the study of culture, language and identity in an educational context will give you transferable skills of critical analysis, policy analysis, academic writing and research methods, and will make you more able to make judgments that require personal responsibility and initiative, in complex and unpredictable environments, including educational institutions.

Most students already have significant experience as educators, either in the formal education system or elsewhere (for example, museums, galleries and voluntary organisations). The programme aims both to enhance your ability to carry out your current work roles and to prepare you to take up positions of responsibility in the workplace. It also forms a preparation for further study in the field of Education and related subjects.

Programme entry requirements

The standard requirement is at least second class honours BA in education or another relevant subject, together with appropriate voluntary or professional (paid) experience in education or community work. Other qualifications of equivalent level will be considered where you can demonstrate academic strength and relevant professional experience. A high level of competence in written and spoken English is also required. If your first language is not English, you will need a minimum score of 6.5 in IELTS or equivalent. Where you fall short of this requirement, you may be offered a place conditional on successful completion of a pre-sessional programme or a Graduate Certificate at the English Language Centre.

Students can transfer 30 or 60 credits from previous Level 7 modules if they can show their relevance to the programme. You would then be exempt from one or two of the three optional modules on the programme.

Aims of the programme

The aims of the programme are for you to develop:

- an advanced knowledge of educational theory and practice drawing upon issues of culture, language and identity;
- a critical understanding of theoretical debates in the field;

- inclusive and alternative perspectives on and strategies for teaching and learning through a systematic process of reasoned critical reflection, and to apply this understanding creatively to issues of their own practice;
- knowledge, skills and confidence to carry out educational research and critical inquiry in the field.

How you will learn

The acquisition of all the above knowledge and understanding learning outcomes is supported by a combination of seminars, small-group discussions and one-to-one tutoring, with the emphasis on peer support through collaborative group working. All modules are taught by a team of academic staff, to provide you with a range of expertise and interests. You are encouraged to develop your own areas of interest through their assessed coursework. Learning outcome A3 is specifically addressed in work for the Dissertation, which is supervised individually.

The acquisition of subject specific and transferable skills is achieved through all aspects of the programme, including both the teaching methods and the assessment strategy. Assignments enable you to identify and investigate issues relevant to your own experiences and/or practice, and these are supported by the work carried out in small groups in seminars and through individual supervision.

How you will be assessed

All taught modules are assessed through essays which enable you to demonstrate your ability to apply the theoretical concepts under discussion to issues in teaching and learning, usually from your own experience. The assessment therefore forms an important and integral part of the learning process as it helps you to develop and clarify your ideas.

Subject-specific skills C2 and C3 will be specifically assessed in relation to the Dissertation. All other skills will, in addition, be assessed through the module essays.

Marking criteria

Mark	Descriptor	Specific Marking Criteria
80-100%	Distinction (Outstanding/ Exceptional)	Awarded to candidates who show evidence of outstanding relevant reading and a highly advanced grasp of current major issues in the field. This knowledge will have been reviewed critically with insight, independence and originality of thought. Arguments and the presentation of evidence will demonstrate highly sophisticated reasoning and be exceptionally clear, well focused and cogent, considered to be of quality suitable for publication. Candidates will have demonstrated that they have achieved the specific learning outcomes of the module to an exceptionally outstanding level.
70-79%	Distinction	Awarded when candidates show evidence of extensive relevant reading and an advanced grasp of current major issues in the field. This knowledge will have been reviewed critically with insight and independence of thought. Arguments and the presentation of evidence will demonstrate sophisticated reasoning and be clear, well-focused and

60-69%	Merit	Awarded when candidates show evidence of extensive relevant reading and an advanced grasp of current major issues in the field. This knowledge will have been reviewed critically with insight and independence of thought. Arguments and the presentation of evidence will demonstrate sophisticated reasoning and be clear, well focused and cogent. Candidates will have demonstrated that they have achieved the specific learning outcomes of the module to an excellent level.
50-59%	Pass	Awarded when there is clear evidence of knowledge and understanding but where there may be little development of ideas, critical comment or methodology. There will be reference to relevant reading, though not necessarily extensive. Within these limitations there will be indications that the student has grasped fundamental concepts and procedures in the field. Candidates will have demonstrated that they have achieved the specific learning outcomes of the module adequately.
30-49%	Fail	Indicates a fail when candidates do not satisfy the examiners that they have read and understood the essential texts of the module and when there are weak and inaccurate answers to questions. Research involved in the writing of a dissertation may be poorly organised and inadequately discussed. There may be confusion and incoherence and unfocused comment on the literature. Candidates will not have demonstrated achievement of the specific learning outcomes of the module.
10-29%	Bad fail	Represents a significant overall failure to achieve the module learning outcomes. Research involved in the writing of a dissertation may be very poorly organised and key concepts inadequately discussed.
1-9%	Very bad fail	Indicates a submission that does not attempt to address the module learning outcomes.
0%	Non submission or plagiarised	Failure to submit or a plagiarised assessment.

How the programme is structured

The MA Education: Culture, Language and Identity is a modular degree, comprising two compulsory modules (Culture, Language and Identity in Education; and the Dissertation).

All students take the first compulsory module, Culture, Language and Identity in Education, in their first term. If you study for the full Master's, you complete three further optional modules plus the compulsory Dissertation module (giving a total of 180 CATS for the MA).

All modules are of equal weight (30 CATS points), except for the Dissertation module, which is double weighted (60 CATS points).

There are two pathways on this programme (pathway A and B).

Pathway A

This pathway may be taken on either a full time or a part time basis. It involves you attending taught sessions at Goldsmiths in the evenings each term.

In addition to the two compulsory modules, optional modules offered on this pathway usually include:

- Children's Literature Culture and Diversity
- Current Developments and Collaborative Approaches in SEN and Behaviour Management
- Early Childhood Education for a Diverse Society
- Masculinities and Femininities in Education
- Education Policy into Practice
- Progressive Leadership and Mentoring in Education
- Race Culture and Education
- Teaching Language in Multilingual Contexts

After the first compulsory module, Culture Language and Identity in Education, modules are pre-selected for this pathway for their particular relevance to practising teachers. The structure of this pathway is as follows:

The Dissertation module for both pathways is taught wholly at Goldsmiths.

Academic support

Support for learning and wellbeing is provided in a number of ways by departments and College support services who work collaboratively to ensure students get the right help to reach their best potential both academically and personally.

All students are allocated a Personal Tutor (one in each department for joint programmes) who has overall responsibility for their individual progress and welfare. Personal Tutors meet with their student at least twice a year either face-to-face, as part of a group and/or electronically. The first meeting normally takes place within the first few weeks of the autumn term. Personal Tutors are also available to students throughout the year of study. These meetings aim to discuss progress on modules, discussion of the academic discipline and reports from previous years if available (for continuing students). This provides an opportunity for progress, attendance and assessment marks to be reviewed and an informed discussion to take place about how to strengthen individual learning and success.

All students are also allocated a Senior Tutor to enable them to speak to an experienced academic member of staff about any issues which are negatively impacting their academic study and which are beyond the normal scope of issues handled by Programme Convenors and Personal Tutors.

Students are provided with information about learning resources, the Library and information available on Learn.gold \(VLE\) so that they have access to department/programme handbooks, programme information and support related information and guidance.

Taught sessions and lectures provide overviews of themes, which students are encouraged to complement with intensive reading for presentation and discussion with peers at seminars. Assessments build on lectures and seminars so students are expected to attend all taught sessions to build knowledge and their own understanding of their chosen discipline.

All assessed work is accompanied by some form of feedback to ensure that students' work is on the right track. It may come in a variety of forms ranging from written comments on a marked essay to oral and written feedback on developing projects and practice as they attend workshops.

Students may be referred to specialist student services by department staff or they may access support services independently. Information about support services is provided on the Goldsmiths website and for new students through new starter information and induction/Welcome Week. Any support recommendations that are made are agreed with the student and communicated to the department so that adjustments to learning and teaching are able to be implemented at a department level and students can be reassured that arrangements are in place. Opportunities are provided for students to review their support arrangements should their circumstances change. The Disability and Wellbeing Services maintain caseloads of students and provide on-going support.

The Careers Service provides central support for skills enhancement, running The Gold Award scheme and other co-curricular activities that are accredited via the Higher Education Achievement Report (HEAR).

The Academic Skills Centre works with academic departments offering bespoke academic literacy sessions. It also provides a programme of academic skills workshops and one-to-one provision for students throughout the year.

Links with employers, placement opportunities and career prospects

The majority of our students are already working in a professional capacity in educational contexts, so any outcomes are likely to relate to enhanced promotion opportunities or changes in career focus rather than employment per se.

The requirements of a Goldsmiths degree

All taught postgraduate degrees have a minimum total value of 180 credits and involve one calendar year of full-time study. Some programmes may extend over more than one calendar year and, when this is the case, they have a higher total credit value. Programmes are composed of individual modules, each of which has its own credit value. Part-time students normally take modules to the value of 90 credits each year. If a programme has a part-time pathway, the structure will be set out in the section “How the programme is structured” above. Normally, all modules are at level 7 of the Framework for Higher Education Qualifications.

More detailed information about the structure and requirements of a Goldsmiths degree is provided in the Goldsmiths Qualifications and Credit Framework.

Modules

Modules are defined as:

- “Optional” – which can be chosen from a group of modules
- “Compulsory” – which must be taken as part of the degree

Progression

Some programmes may require students to pass specific modules prior to completion of the dissertation/major project (or equivalent). Additionally, where a programme of study extends beyond one calendar year, students may be required to pass specific modules in their first year of study before progressing to the second year. Where this is the case, these requirements will be set out in this Programme Specification.

Award of the degree

In order to graduate, students must successfully complete all modules specified for the programme, as set out within the section “How the programme is structured” above.

Classification

Final degree classification is calculated on the basis of a student’s mean average mark (based on credit value) across all modules on the programme.

Masters degrees are awarded with the following classifications:

- Distinction – 70%+
- Merit – 60-69%
- Pass – 50-59%

More detail on the calculation of the final classification is on our website.

Interim exit awards

Some programmes incorporate interim exit points of Postgraduate Certificate and/or Postgraduate Diploma, which may be awarded on the successful completion of modules to the minimum value of 60 credits or 120 credits respectively. The awards are made without classification.

When these awards are incorporated within the programme, the relevant learning outcomes and module requirements will be set out within the “What you will be expected to achieve” section above.

The above information is intended as a guide, with more detailed information available in the Goldsmiths Academic Manual.

Programme-specific rules and facts

If you pass the compulsory module, Culture, Language and Identity in Education and gain a further 30 credits you may be awarded the Postgraduate Certificate in Educational Studies (60 credits).

If you pass the compulsory module, Culture, Language and Identity in Education and gain a further 90 credits you may be awarded the Postgraduate Diploma in Educational Studies (120 credits).

General programme costs

In addition to your tuition fees, you will be responsible for meeting standard costs associated with your study. Find out more information at gold.ac.uk/programme-costs.

Specific programme costs

Not applicable.

How teaching quality will be monitored

Goldsmiths employs a number of methods to ensure and enhance the quality of learning and teaching on its programmes.

Programmes and modules are formally approved against national standards and are monitored throughout the year, such as in departmental committees, a variety of student feedback mechanisms and through the completion of module evaluation questionnaires. Every programme has at least one External Examiner who reviews comments annually on the standards of awards and student achievement. External Examiner(s) attend Boards of Examiners meetings and submit an annual written report.

Modules, programmes and/or departments are also subject to annual and periodic review internally, as well as periodic external scrutiny.

Quality assurance processes aim to ensure Goldsmiths' academic provision remains current, that the procedures to maintain the standards of the awards are working effectively and the quality of the learning opportunities and information provided to students and applicants is appropriate.

Detailed information on all these procedures are published on the Quality Office web pages.
