

TEACHERS AND ADVISERS CONFERENCE 30 JUNE 2017

---

To find out more about our speakers and workshop content, please visit:
explore.gold/teachersconference
@goldschools

Goldsmiths, University of London warmly invites you to attend our annual teachers and advisers conference on Friday 30 June 2017.

For careers advisers to support staff and subject tutors to curriculum leaders, our free-to-attend conference offers cutting-edge insight and networking opportunities for those providing information, advice and guidance to students, along with support for your own continuing professional development.

At a time when advising young people has never been more complex, come and receive expert insight on the latest in policy development from Westminster, the future landscape of FE and HE, and hear about the many ways Goldsmiths can support the work you do.

Our conference is free to attend and includes lunch and a post-event drinks reception.

---

To reserve your place and receive further information visit explore.gold/teachersconference

If you have any queries, please e-mail
L.McMahon@gold.ac.uk

After a welcome from the Warden, Patrick Loughrey, you'll hear from exciting workshop facilitators including:

- 'Reference Writing – Supporting the UCAS Journey' Dr Michael England from the HE Access Network will be providing expert insight on how to write a great reference for your students applying to university
- 'The State of Play – HE from Westminster' Ant Bagshaw, Deputy Director of WonkHE.com, the popular higher education policy website, will be discussing the future of HE
- UCAS Updates – Alan Jones from UCAS will be here to bring you the current trends, stats and updates from UCAS HQ

We'll also have workshops on 'Student Ambassadors and How They Can Support You', and 'Mental Health, Boundaries and Self-Care in an Institutional Setting'.

---

Secure your place by booking online by Friday 16 June.

We look forward to welcoming you.